

Design choice: I deliberately chose to have both the content of the cart along with contact information for checking out on the same page. This was to minimize the number of pages and thus user inputs required. On the lefthand side, you have the very first page of the check out process and on the right, you have the content of the cart page.